

CONTINUING A COLLEGE STUDENT'S FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

23.2.2022 | BENGALURU

Despite the fact that education is a fundamental right for all, some worthy students are compelled to drop out owing to financial constraints. During the second wave of the covid pandemic, Hurricane Vets Charitable Trust (HVCT), Chennai discovered a student from Nilgiris, Ms.M.Jothika, and with the help of a sponsor, the student's financial burden was alleviated.

Ms.M.Jothika, a B.Sc.Nursing student at the Dr.B.R.Ambedkar Institute of Nursing in Bengaluru, contacted HVCT in April 2021 to express her unhappiness with her father's choice to stop her education owing to financial issues.

Mrs.E.Saraswathi Elangovan, Head, Imports & Regulatory, Timo Eva Wellness Pvt.Ltd., Bengaluru, presenting Ms.M.Jothika a demand draft

The message was subsequently forwarded to members of the Hurricane Vets Charitable Trust, and Dr.N.Elangovan, a member of HVCT, sprung into action right once, remitting her fees on 9.4.2021 and meeting her fee obligations for the academic year 2020-21.

She experienced the same scenario for her tuition fees this academic year, and fortunately, a few kind individuals offered to help her, but it was in vain due to their own motives. Dr.N.Elangovan rose to the occasion once again, consenting to remit the required sum on behalf of Hurricane Vets Charitable Trust to Ms.M.Jothika.

SERVING BETTER LIFE TO MANKIND THROUGH EMPOWERMENT

In this connection, Mrs.E.Saraswathi Elangovan, Head, Imports & Regulatory, Timo Eva Wellness Pvt.Ltd., Bengaluru, presented Ms.M.Jothika a demand draft for the amount on 23.2.2022 in her office.

We are extremely grateful to Dr.N.Elangovan and his family for undertaking this noble gesture for the second year in a row and for keeping Ms.M.Jothika's smile intact.

Hurricane Vets Charitable Trust, Chennai wishes her a bright future in the most service-oriented nursing profession, and we are confident that once she settles into a position, she would be a source of upliftment to other deserving learners. We appreciate the Board of Trustees' permission and required support in this matter.

HURRICANE VETS CHARITABLE TRUST CHENNAI